Job Opportunities at Jabatan Pendidikan Politeknik 1

Company Overview

Polytechnic education began in Malaysia with establishment of the Ungku Omar Polytechnic, Ipoh in 1961 under the First National Development Plan. The need to provide wider access to technical education and training for the country was highlighted by the Cabinet Committee on Education in 1979 and in the First National Industrial Plan (1980).

In addition to decisions made by these committees, the Cabinet Committee on Training (1991) paved the way for the development in Polytechnic education. As a result, there was an increase in the number of Polytechnics and they were able to offer more programmes to cater the demands of semi-professional personnel in the engineering and service sectors.

On 26th March 2010, the Cabinet further deliberated and approved the Higher Education Memorandum (HEM) to establish four METRO Polytechnics in the 9th Malaysian Plan and another six in the 10th Malaysia Plan.
